Merry Christmas And A Happy New Year

Kendall, Dickerson Voted Class Presidents

Student Loans Now Available

During the past month ASB vice-president Dick Griffin has been working with the school directors on a plan for financial aid to CBC students.

The student loan plan has been set up to help needy students who are in good standing academically with the college. Through this plan students who find that they can not continue with their education because of financial reasons may be able to gain aid.

Each applicant for a loan must submit an application for a loan which will be reviewed by a board comprised of Mr. Cooney, CBC Director; Mr. Askegaard, Registrar; Jim Watts, ASB President and Dick Griffin, ASB vice-president.

Certain restrictions have been placed on the loanee. (1) He or she may not be a first-quarter student. (2) If the loanee is under 21 years of age the parents must sign a legal form. (3) The loan will be given only to help the student toward completing his college education at CBC.

A minimum of $25 has been placed on the loan with the exact amount of the loan to be decided upon by the board that reviews the application.

The source of funds for the loans will be the various vending machines in the lounge and cafeteria. A small amount of the revenue will come from a one-percent a month interest rate placed on the loans. In this way the money spent by the students will in turn be used to aid some worthy person in the completion of his education.

AWS Christmas Tea To Honor CBC Moms

Mothers of CBC students and faculty women will be honored guests at a Christmas tea sponsored by the Associated women on Thursday, December 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. The tea will be held in the student lounge, which will be appropriately decorated for Christmas.

Invitations to the affair will be sent out by Cherry O'Bannon and her committee, and Dorothy Dahl will be in charge of the reception of guests. These committee chairmen will appoint their own committees'

Other committee chairmen, who will also appoint their own committees, are Angie McCullough, who will have charge of decorations, Lela Hooper who will supervise the refreshments, and Jackie Reiton, who is chairman of the entertainment committee. Angie McCullough and Joyce Trull will handle the clean-up committee.

Entertainment will be in the form of Christmas music, which will be provided by the girls' ensemble, some individual vocal music and Christmas records as background.

Individual numbers will be presented by Loren Claunch, Sonja Olson, Bob Harris and Marilyn Stefenson.

The tea is not a dress up affair, as it is being held on a school afternoon.

TEA TIMERS—Pictured above are seven of the women who made yesterday's tea the success that it was. Without the time and effort showered forth by the various chairmen, the tea would not have been possible. Sitting from left to right are: Mrs. Venetta Stappler, women's counselor; Cherry O'Bannon, invitations chairman; Dorothy Dahl, AWS president in charge of receptions; Sandy Howerder, Carol Sittler, Jackie Reitan, chairman of entertainment committee; and Angie McCollough, in charge of clean-up. Freshman plans are being made to arrange a formal for the graduating sophomores, which will become an established tradition at the college.

Both classes will concentrate on furthering school spirit as well as promoting more student dances and activities.

Speech Prof Likes College

Playing a vital role in the English department of Columbia Basin College this year is Mr. Marvin Olmstead. His classes include English composition, beginning and advanced peech, and introduction to drama.

Hailing originally from the Black Hills region in South Dakota, Mr. Olmstead received his Bachelor of Science in education from the Black Hills Teachers College in Spearfish, South Dakota.

Since that time he has done graduate work at the state college of Washington. This year at CBC is Mr. Olmstead's is his first year at the college as well as his first year in the teaching profession, and he confesses to be quite pleased with the rapidity of the organization and establishment of Columbia Basin College.

He, with his wife and three-year-old daughter, enjoys the Columbia Basin area, although he admits that it doesn't furnish the scenic value of his home state.

Geography Class Makes Field Trip

"Interesting and instructive," these were the words Mr. Oberst used to describe the field trip taken by the students of his economic geography classes.

Approximately thirty class members journeyed to the Salt Lake Pipe Line Terminal east of Pasco. The manager, Mr. Walters, explained how the company pumps petroleum products from the refinery in Salt Lake City to the northwest.

Aviation gas, Ethyl gas, Diesel fuel, and regular gas are some of the products pumped to the Tri-Cities. The Salt Lake refinery furnishes more than fifty percent of the Inland Empire's gas.

Is Segregation Pressured?

(ACP) The North has long considered itself the defender of the ideals of democracy, and the rights of the individual in regard to the racial segregation problem. The recent verdict of the Supreme Court concerning integration in education has given the Yankee superiority mentality an added shot in the arm.

Consider this problem faced by a North Carolina state college:

Two negro girls were admitted to the college in an attempt to break the segregation barrier. The school as a whole did not merely tolerate the two girls, but accepted them wholeheartedly as fellow students.

Needless to say, the two girls received great publicity through newspapers, magazines and other mediums of communication. However, and this is the problem, the school newspaper is unable to print this story of successful integration. The paper fears the state legislature of North Carolina, and has reason to.

The state legislature of North Carolina is empowered to stop state aid to state-supported colleges. This legislature is notably pro-segregationist. The faculty and students fear repercussions if the school newspaper carries the story. The paper could be pressured into non-existence, state aid to the college could b stopped, or perhaps, as one southern student remarked, "The college would be closed down and the buildings sold to the cotton mills."

Home Turnout For Game Gives Sad Impression

At the first home basketball game two weeks ago, featuring CBC's Hawks and Lewis and Clark Normal, the CBC fan turnout was very sparse. I will say that the biggest share of the spectators were from the college, but when you take into consideration the total number of fans that attended, this is very few of the total number enrolled here.

There are a number of ways that you can benefit the school by turning out for the games, as well as being able to watch two good contests. Before every varsity game at home there will be a preliminary contest featuring the Hawk J.V. and an independent team. If the so-called non-partisan fans see that the students from the college are interested in the contests, perhaps more of them will take an interest in the games. In this way you can help the college out financially, as CBC gets a certain percentage of the gate receipts. The caliber of play will become increasingly better as the season wears on and the teams gain experience. The squad members and the coaches would greatly appreciate your support also.

Another idea for you to consider in connection with the attendance angle should come up when you are reminded of your ASB cards. Very few of you would buy a ticket to the show and then walk away without seeing the feature. You have already paid to get into the home games by your tuition and will be admitted free of charge upon presentation of your Student Pass. Why not take advantage of it.

The next home game is January 5 at the Pasco high school gym, with the J. V. game starting at approximately 6:30 p.m. The varsity meets Yakima Junior College in the feature event.

"We Want Activities"

Dear Editor:

We the students of CBC feel that intramural activities consisting of various games such as chess, checkers, cards, and television for students during their free hours would be a good thing.

We believe that if such were available, students would be inclined to take school more seriously and have a greater school spirit. The way it is now, students who don't play ping pong are left out because it is about the only thing available for students seeking pastime activities.

In addition, a great help to the students would be more frequent student body assemblies in which we could be informed more strongly about the school and its functions. The last game our basketball team played was not known by at least half of the students until after the game had been played. More publicity of such happenings should be given to both the students and the pubilc.

School Spirit Intellectually Overshadowed By Athletics

(ACP)—Someone is always ready to talk about school spirit or the lack of same. On that subject, Jerry Russom recently included this commentary in his column in the Long Beach State College Forty-Niner:

"One of my more intellectual friends brought up a point the other day that stimulates some serious thinking. He asked why the spirit of a college or university must always be connected with its sports program.

"Citing a definite lack of pride in intellectual conquests, he added that he would like to put on a pair of Bermudas, sand in the middle of the campus, and lead a few yells for the Philosophy department.

"He's right too. All over the United States, with the possible exception of a few schools which are solely academic, the value and standing of an institution is based on its "spirit" and its football team.

"Here at Long Beach State we have heard so much about the lack of spirit on the part of the students that it is beginning to leave a bad taste in the mouth. Why should a person have to sit in the bleachers and yell his lungs out to prove that he is loyal to his college?

"I am not advocating the overthrow of football or of the time-honored "spirit." This type of loyalty is just as vital to the school as intellectual spirit. It is especially important to a certain type of student. I do feel, however, that we should realize that Long Beach State has many students to whom this rah-rah buit is not essential.

"We shouldn't worry too much if our crowds at football games are not the biggest or our yells the loudest. Perhaps we already possess in mature intellect what we are seemingly missing in the boola-boola department."

CBC Registrar Attends Meeting

As president of the Washington Vocational Association, Mr. George Askegaard, CBC registrar and assistant director, recently traveled to St. Louis, Missouri where, as a voting delegate, he attended the fiftieth anniversary meeting of the American Vocational Association. He was gone from December 2 to 10.

His participation in the conference included a discussion on "The Correlation of the Distributive Education Club Program and Instruction." He also acted as recorder during a distributive education discussion, "Understanding All Vocational Services."

Commenting on the meeting, Mr. Askegaard stated, "The result of this meeting is a much closer relationship between the services such as agriculture, home economics, distributive education, trade and industries, industrial arts, and business education.

Hawks Defeat Whitman 81-59

The blue and white quintet, trailing up two points at the half, doubled Whitman's scoring in the second half with a scoring spurt, to swamp the Whitman JV's, 81-59, on the Whitman maples last week.

Bob Graham, the Hawks leading scorer at the center post, again set the pace with 14 points, followed closely by Olson, who netted 12. Three other players for the Hawks, Platsman, Gillespie, and Forrest also jumped into the double columns with 10 points each.

Trailing 35-33 at halftime, Bob Graham sank a field goal to knot the score. Then guard Dave Forrest swished a two-handed-pusher from outside the key to put the Hawks in the lead, which they never relinquished.

Lightfoot Only Hawk On State JC Squad

Bob Nearents, Bob Wilkes Voted To Junior College Second Eleven

Dick Lightfoot, stellar end for Columbia Basin College, was the only member from the CBC eleven to be named on the first team of the Washington State Junior College all star team. The announcement was made last week by league officials.

Center-linebacker Bob Nearents and halfback Bob Wilkes were also named on the second team. Nearents, although sidelined with a leg injury for half the season, was outstanding on both offense and defense. Speedy Bob Wilkes kept conference teams on their toes with his agility to break away, scoring on more than four dashes, all over 60 yards.

The Black Knights of Wenatchee, conference champions for the last two years, placed four men on the first team. Both Olympic JC and Yakima Valley placed two men on the all star squad.

The first team was as follows:

CBC Dumps L-D Normal

The Columbia Basin College Hawks copped their first win of the season last week, downing the Warriors of Lewis and Clark Normal with a 62-55 score in an early season exhibition game.

Bob Graham and Chuck Platsman were the sparkplugs of the Col-Basin quintet. Graham netted a total of 19 points, while the uncanny Platsman netted 15.

Hawks Avenge Football Loss

The Hawks scored their fourth win of the non-conference basketball season Monday by trouncing the Wenatchee Knights 98-63 in the Pasco High gym.

Trailing only twice at the beginning of the game, the Hawks set two new scoring records for total points and for field goals. The 38 out of 77 field goal attempts resulted in a record 49 per cent, and the final score marked the first time in Hawk history that the team has hit the 90 point mark.

High scorer for the CBC team was Dennis Olson, who dumped in a total of 16. Twelve players broke into the scoring column, with five in double figures. Bob Graham netted 14, Jan Tidrick and Chuck Wilkes had 12 each, and Tilbert Neal added 11.

High scorer in the game was Wenatchee's Ron Trotter, who got a total of 23, hitting seven baskets and nine free throws.

Highlighting the game was Bob Nearants, who remained in the contest several minutes after his fifth personal foul and scored the record 90th point by accidentally bouncing the ball through the hoop on attempted pass.

AAUW Give Funds For Women's Loans

Needy CBC women are eligible to apply for loans from a fund recently set up by the Pasco-Kennewick branch of the American Association of University Women according to Mrs. Vanetta Stappler, CBC girls counselor.

In establishing the fund the educational and fellowship committees of the A. A. U. W. has sent the following notation to the colleges: "A local revolving fund of $150, for Columbia Basin Junior College, for women who have completed two quarters of work will be set up."

The fund will be called "The Pasco-Kennewick A. A. U. W. Loan Fund" and it is to be administered by the dean of women at the college. The amount of the loan should not exceed $50 per student per year.

These loans require no interest and will be payable at the end of one year. In case of emergency, a time extension may be granted. Yearly additions to the fund will depend on action of the A. A. U. W. each year.

Women interested in this loan should contact Mrs. Stappler.

Botany, Dancing New CBC Classes In Winter Quarter

Only two entirely new courses, botany and dancing, are being offered at Columbia Basin College winter quarter. Other classes not given fall quarter are regular sequence courses which are in reality continuations of fall quarter courses.

The botany class, which meets at 8 a.m., is taught by Mr. Moulton Clark, and has an enrollment of approximately 30. This large an enrollment having not been expected, it was necessary to split the only scheduled lab section and some students now report for lab at 7 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays.

The dancing class is a part of the winter quarter schedule of the P. E. department. Instruction is being given at the Arthur Murray Dance Studio in Pasco. Although the classes are under the supervision of Mr. Leonard Pyne and Mrs. Venetta Stappler, the actual teaching of the dance steps is being done by employes of the studio.

Dances to be learned are the waltz, fox trot, rumba, tango, and swing.

At present, 39 students are enrolled in the class. Twenty three are men and 16 are women. There is room for four more women. Fee for the course is $5.

Panty Raids Cost Money

(ACP)—The male students at Berkeley, California, will probably think twice before staging any more panty raids. There was a really big raid last spring and it wound up costing students $5,100. That's the sum paid to the girls who filed loss claims with the dean of students office. After the raid on May 16, the men of the organized living groups around the campus contributed approximately $3.50 per man to a philanthropic fund to pay for restitution of damages. Individual claims from the girls averaged about $20. Many were as small as $1, but at least one totaled over $100. Nor has the restitution committee finished the job of paying. It has now begun evaluating the property damage claims of the various houses invaded during the riot.

Associated Women Undertal Christmas Service Projects

The Associated Women have undertaken a number of service projects for the Christmas season, including a Christmas box for a needy family, Christmas decorations for the school, and the sending of Christmas cards to all the other women's associations in the colleges of Washington.

A project not connected with Christmas but recently completed has been the coat room off the main hall.

Jackie Reitan is in charge of the box for the needy family. The box is in Mrs. Stappler's office and the family that will receive it includes two boys and two girls. The girls are aged nine and six and the boys are eleven and seven. All contributions will be accepted donations of food for a Ch mas dinner are especially w ed.

Tuition Increase Disliked; Yet It Becomes Necessity

(ACP)—The board of trustees at Cornell University recently approved a tuition increase. The Cornell Daily Sun editorialized on the increase as follows:

"Tuition increases are universally disliked, by administrators and teachers as well as students. But in the picture of mid-century American higher education, increased fees have become as necessary as they are unwelcome.

The University's recent announcement tat endowed college tuition would be raised to $1,100 in September, 1957, comes as no surprise. It has long been evident that spiralling costs and development programs had to be financed from new sources. The single most important factor in determining the increase . . . faculty salaries . . . has presented a problem to all educational institutions for several years something had to be don meet the crisis.

The dangers of skyrock tuitions are at once evi eventually the University be able to draw on only thier families, and admit dents of both mediocre high ability.
